

Public Support For Age Security Forces President to Favor

WASHINGTON—The President will write his own ticket on the social security program, just as he is doing on the $1,000,000,000 plan for relief and public works. And for much the same reasons, namely:

Congress doesn't dare to defeat it.

The Old Guarders are being deliberately shunned when it comes to advice.

The program, while falling short of what the liberals would like to see enacted and will demand, is nevertheless much more extensive than they had expected.

That this last is so, is due to two factors:

First, the influence of Labor Secretary Perkins who is a strong advocate of far-reaching social security measures.

Second, the distinctly unfavorable reaction that greeted the President's speech before the Social Security Conference in which he indicated a marked coolness to the enactment of old-age pensions at this session.

The President, his ear acutely attuned to popular sentiment, did not fail to grasp the fact that he had slipped a cog in rebuffing old-security.

That the Townsend plan was rolling up tremendous support also had its effect in persuading him to change his mind. It became apparent that if he didn't sponsor a pension program, one would be dumped into his lap by Congress.

So he recovered the ball and took the initiative.

Senate Hand-Ball

New Jersey's Senator A. Harry Moore is fond of playing hand-ball, but promises he will never again use the corridors of the Senate Office Building for a hand-ball court.

New to Washington, Jersey's former Governor has not yet found a partner for his favorite indoor sport. So he went alone to the court in the basement of the building the other day, had a work-out, took a shower and was headed back to the office, seeking fit to face the crowd of job-seekers waiting for him.

"I wasn't thinking about what I was doing," the Senator explained with a genuine blush. "I was walking along the corridor bouncing the ball in front of me, like this. . . Suddenly I looked up. There, staring with gaping mouths were a group of sightseers."

"I was giving them an eyeful—a Senator bouncing a ball in the marble corridors of the Capitol. 'Well—I've been very mindful of the dignity of my office ever since.'"

Paid and Unpaid

Some contributors to the Democratic National Committee get repaid—and some don't. It is interesting to check the accounts and see who is favored.

Among the largest creditors are: The National Broadcasting Company, $107,576.71.

The Columbia Broadcasting Company, $47,650.50.

Joe Kennedy, SEC Chairman, $50,000.00.

John J. Raskob, ex-chairman, $80,500.00.

Among the creditors who have been repaid are:

Emil Hurja, man Friday of Big Jim Farley, $3,000.00.

Big Jim, himself, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, "for telephone charges contacted in behalf of the D. N. C. and personally paid for between July 1 and Aug. 5, 1934", $3,246.65.

The Committee also still owes $17,500 to Mike Benedum, Pittsburgh oil promoter, who in the meantime has been rewarded with an appointment on the NRA Planning and Coordinating Committee.

He helped formulate the oil code, and is still a member of the Business Advisory and Planning Council of the Commerce Department.

Dictator Monopoly

Huey Long apparently wants a monopoly on the implements of dictatorship. He is having some of his "Share-the-Wealth" slogans and marching songs copyrighted at the Library of Congress.

Prosecutor Ray W. Davis was in attendance at the meeting today.

for a state bureau of criminal identification and investigation after Governor Martin L. Davey had warned them of the "dangers" of lawlessness to society.

Declaring that law enforcement was the most important function of government, Davey said "organized crime is a challenge to modern society."

"I am told," he said, "that anyone can have someone 'bumped off' for $25 or $50, and as long as that condition prevails, society is in danger."

He branded operation of the state berrillon system at the London prison farm by convicts as "false economy," adding that "this work should be handled by men who look upon the work as their career."

Davey also attacked "coddling of prisoners because they are mentally sick."

"The trouble is," he continued, "is that they have been too smart. They are all right in the mind but they lack character." Davey reiterated his statement that a $50,000 ransom letter had been received by a prominent Ohio family in support of his plea for the crime bureau but he did not elaborate on it. Meantime, L. Clarke Schilder, department of justice official, promised federal co-operation with the state crime bureau.

LOADED TRUCK CRASHES INTO PARKED AUTOS

Three Machines Badly
Damaged As Driver of
Truck Goes to Sleep

N. COURT-ST SCENE

Denman, Chalfin, Beaty
Sustain Loss

Three automobiles were wrecked with damage to reach several hundred dollars, Thursday evening, when a beer truck, heavily loaded, crashed into the parked cars on N. Court-st. The damaged machines are the Essex of Robert Denman, the Chrysler of C. G. Chalfin and the Hudson of Roy Beaty.

The truck driver, Harry Kent, 43, of 428 Lintz-st., Charleston, W. Va., was taken into custody for operating a motor vehicle without due regard for other vehicles. He was fined $25 and costs by Mayor W. B. Cady in a hearing Friday morning.

DROVE 24 HOURS

Further investigation of the accident looked when Kent, who is colored, told Officer Fred Fitzpatrick and Deputy Miller Fissell that he had been driving continuously since Wednesday at 10 p. m. He had driven from Charleston to Findlay and was on his way back to the West Virginia city without any rest. He had no relief driver on the truck.

Kent admitted to police that he went to sleep while driving and the first thing he heard was the crash. He said the last thing he remembered was rounding the curve near the N. Court-st. intersection. He was traveling south.

CARRIED 200 CASES

The two-ton International truck carrying 200 cases of Old Dutch beer, made in Findlay, struck the Beaty car first, tearing off three wheels. It then smashed into Denman's and forced it against the Chalfin machine. All the residents of the N. Court-st. vicinity in which the accident happened were routed from their homes by the noise of the impact. Owners of all three cars were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bennett enjoying a "surprise" party.

Kent told officers he drove for Frank Newhouse, Charleston, of the Ohio and West Virginia Motor Freight Co. His truck was not badly damaged and not a single case of beer was broken.

Three garages claimed the three damaged automobiles.

FEDERAL MEN SMASH GANG

Series of Rapid Raids Result
In Arrest of Mals and Other
Murderers.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Department of justice agents achieved another major victory in the crime war today by capturing Robert Mals, gang leader and ruthless killer, and four members of his mob in the biggest roundup of outlaws in New York's recent history.

Acting on a tip from the New York police the agents arrested Mals, while he slept. He had been their quarry since he killed a mail truck driver in Richmond, Va., and later escaped from jail.

The agents pounced upon him before he could use a .38 caliber revolver by his bed.

Simultaneously, in another part of the city, they captured Walter Lagenza, Mals's first lieutenant, who escaped from jail in Richmond with him after both had been convicted for murder in the mail truck case.

It was discovered that Lagenza was severely wounded from a past encounter with the law. Both his legs had been shattered in a recent gun battle with the Philadelphia police from which Mals escaped unscathed. Lagenza was taken to a New York hospital.

SWEETHEART CAUGHT

Mary McKeever, Mals' pretty sweetheart, was arrested later when she called at the hospital to ask for Lagenza.

Marty Farrell, a fugitive from justice, was captured at the same time in a mid-town hotel. Farrell escaped from Eastern penitentiary, Philadelphia, before joining the gang. Edwin Gals, a fugitive from Georgia, was captured with him.

Two other members of the mob, Frank Wiley and Charles Zeid, were captured in a gang roundup in Philadelphia last month. They are now in Eastern penitentiary at Philadelphia.

COUNSEL IN DISCORD

Damaging Testimony
Stirs Bruno to Action

COURTROOM, FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 18.—Lindbergh ransom bills—thousands of dollars worth of them—were laid out on a railing before the eyes of the jury today at the murder trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann. It was the first time the money had been displayed in open court.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 18.—With Bruno Richard Hauptmann "blowing up" in the courtroom his lawyers fighting among the selves and the state dealing a series of telling blows, the Hauptmann defense today reached blackest point since the celebrated murder trial began.

Hauptmann, the man accused of killing the Lindbergh baby, been transformed from an insubstantial, "iron" nerved defendant in a desperate, jumpy prisoner who is likely to do anything.

His remarkable self control a coolness under fire is gone. He breaking under the strain of fending himself from the charge having committed "the crime the century." Everybody is wondering what the German will next.

And to add to his disturbed state of mind is his evidence knowledge that his own lawyers are not getting along together.

Hauptmann electrified the spectators when he sprang from his chair in the courtroom and

CONGRESS CLEARS DECKS TO SPEED SECURITY PROGRAM

NEED 30 DAYS TO PASS PLAN

Minor Objection Raised On Various Questions; May Boost Pension Money.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—In the face of serious obstacles, the leaders today were hopeful of driving President Roosevelt's security program through Congress within 30 days.

Since Mr. Roosevelt warned that speed is essential to enable 44 legislatures to conform their laws to the program, early and probably brief hearings are planned.

The House ways and means committee hopes to begin hearings Monday while the Senate finance committee will open hearings on the measure Tuesday. This will keep the program almost continuously before both branches after the bill is reported to the House.

MAY RAISE PRICE

A drive of considerable proportions to liberalize the measure, particularly to raise the proposed $30 a month old age pension to at least $50, confronted the leaders. Republican senators from far western states, where the gigantic $24,000,000,000—$200 a month plan of Dr. Francis E. Townsend has taken hold, insist the program be liberalized.

The same sentiment is expressed by Senator Van Nuys (D) of Indiana and other Democratic members. The leaders are confident, however, that the Democratic majority will go along with the President who reminded Congress that the treasury's ability to pay is limited.

A revolt opened in the House when Chairman Connery (D) of Massachusetts, of the labor committee, called his body into session to report out an old-age pension plan similar to that of the administration. The committee is irked because the President's bill was not referred to it.

Connery's committee decided also to take up the unemployment insurance plan of Rep. Lundeen (F-L) of Minnesota—the third party plan. Connery estimated the maximum cost of the Lundeen plan at $11,000,000,000 a year. The federal treasury would bear the entire burden.

BUSINESS OBJECTS

Opposition from business interests to the President's unemployment insurance plan is expected on the ground it is far too liberal. The proposed 3 per cent tax on payrolls to finance unemployment insurance would cost industry about $600,000,000 a year. And other costs of aiding contributory old-age pension and annuity plans would increase this burden. The federal government would bear only administrative cost of the security program would cost the federal treasury $200,000,000 a year after the first year. This cost includes grants to states to aid dependent children, and strengthening of health agencies.

Under the President's proposals, unemployment insurance would be left to the states. This is made compulsory because states would lose their share of the pay-roll tax unless they have such systems.

Objections were raised in both branches to many technical features of the bill of Senator Wag-

Naming Plymouth, Mass.

Plymouth, Mass., was named for Plymouth, in England, the last English port touched by the Pilgrims, and that port was so named because it is situated at the mouth of the Plym river.

Traffic Lights in 1868

As long ago as 1868, Westminster, England, tried out a red and green traffic signal in the form of a gas lamp and used only at night.

Meaning of "California" The name of the Golden State were reduced to its Spanish interpretation it is very probable that the aggressive advertising of its oil, made would be largely nullified, for literally "California" is a combination of two Spanish words meaning "hot furnace," writes G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times. The Spaniards, who were the first white men to explore the state, gave to it this name because their interest was not in the cool, verdant lands of the seacoast, but in the hot, arid sections of the interior, where it was believed gold was to be found.

A young mother who could not eat or sleep after a baby came got all her health back and gained 10 lbs. in less than a month. You simply must try McCoy's at once. Remember if you don't gain at least 3 lbs. of firm healthy flesh in a month get your money back. PATTERN 5289

The bathroom today, gay in colored tile and attractive in its modern fittings, is a room of which every housewife is justly proud. By adding this lovely crocheted rug to it, it can be enhanced as well as improved in comfort. The design is so easy to follow for it is given in a clear chart. All you need is your crocheted rug—a nice big one—and white and colored candlewicking. You can, of course, use black with a color, for so many bathrooms today are decorated with black. A band for a towel is made in a harmonizing design and is to be crocheted in string. Of course, this rug does just as well for the bedroom and there is a matching design for a scarf to be done in flet crocheted in string.

In pattern 5289 you will find complete instructions and charts for making the rug, towel band and flet scarf; an illustration of them and of the stitches needed; material requirements, and color suggestions.

VETERANS AND THE BONUS

VETERANS of the World War are making an organized effort to promote interest in their side of the bonus question, even within their own ranks, and to arouse sentiment in their behalf in legislation pending in Congress.

Pickaway-co veterans held an interesting meeting in Circleville this week and discussed the bonus question from beginning to end. This meeting was sponsored by members of the American Legion, and was but one of the thousands of meetings being held throughout the United States primarily for the same purpose—to acquaint the membership, and all other ex-service men, with the provisions of the law governing the payment of the bonus, its present status, and its probable effect upon the nation as a whole.

The veterans contend that Uncle Sam owes them for services performed—a little something over and above the stipulated sum of $1 per day, and that they want to collect it in as orderly and peaceable manner as possible. They have followed the legislation of Congress, often without much voice in the matter, to learn that six years after the war was over the bonus bill was passed providing for payment in the year 1945, with interest. Provision was later made for soldiers to borrow a certain portion of their bonus. At that time only a small per cent of the men who served in the war actually needed the money, but things looked different when the depression came on and thousands were thrown out of employment. It was then believed that immediate payment of the bonus claims in cash would be of great benefit to individual soldiers and would also aid business conditions in general by putting two billions of dollars into circulation throughout the country.

Opponents of the immediate payment of the bonus want to know where the government is going to get the money, and the soldiers say that's no concern of theirs—to get it the same way provisions are made for the other large expenditures.

Veterans' organizations are seemingly better prepared than ever before to carry on the fight. Their campaign of education as to just what the bonus is, what it is for, and the probable result of its immediate payment, is bound to have weight with the public and with the law-makers.

Local veterans are sincere in their belief that the bonus should be paid now instead of waiting until 1945, and are proceeding on the theory that if the money is coming to them they want to collect it.

NATURE DID HER BEST

OF all nature's mistakes man himself is probably the most serious, a British scientist tells the British Association for the Advancement of Science, and yet, of all the creatures that depend on nature for life and sustenance man alone feels competent to patronize the universal mother and point out her mistakes.

Many unscientific minds agree with the scientist in his belief that nature blundered in producing a "big-brained animal with hands," who has turned out to be "more trouble than he is worth" and whose skill and cunning have created problems which he is not able to solve.

This is probably arguing the point of view of those who think that the world and everything in it are accidents without point or purpose. Under the deistic conception of a purpose that inspires progress, man is supposed to be an improvement over everything that has gone before him—the divinist work of the Creator.

Isn't this man of science a little hard on his own species? The human race hasn't lived up to his own definition of "human," but, whatever the purpose of it all, it has climbed a level or two in its long evolution. Man is far from perfection in his own eyes, which shows what his purpose is.

MORE AND BETTER CARS

NEW York's annual automobile show, the most important of the trade promotion enterprises staged by this industry, has closed with all interested parties in the highest of spirits. Incidentally, the show's success is significant of the progress of national recovery.

Every exhibitor participating in the New York show reports a substantial increase in sales as compared with last year. These gains range from 50 per cent to 100 per cent and even better. And they are not confined to the lowest-priced cars.

For the first time in seven years, the trend in more expensive cars has turned definitely upward and in certain of these industries more men are employed at the present time than at the peak of production last year.

This situation in the automobile industry reflects an undeniable improvement in general business situation. Primarily, however, it is a reflection of the courage and the enterprise of the automobile industry, which kept its head up and fought desperately even in the darkest days of the depression.

All that can be said of the processes of justice in Russia is that they are rapid.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Valentine and son, Loren, and daughters, Ida May and Louise, and Mrs. Valentine's mother, Mrs. Ida Baker, left with a Columbus party for their new home in San Pedro, Isle of Pines, where they expected to start an orange and grape fruit grove on an 80-acre tract of land.

Farmers Institute at Derby passed a resolution endorsing a movement to provide education tending to encourage boys and girls to remain on the farm.

Mrs. Howard Jones resigned as chairman of the centennial committee and asked that a man be selected to carry on the work of planning for the centennial celebration.

Little Sister

by MARGARET WIDDEMER

READ THIS FIRST:

Leila Madison, an orphan, has been trying to halt the elopement of her reckless young sister, Bet, with Addison Huntington, a romantic newspaper reporter, has been helping her because of his friendship for Addison's brother who was Jerry's roommate at Yale. They are all at Leila's home in Westchester where Addison and Jerry meet Aunt Minnie and Mrs. Johnston-Hedges, mother of Leila's sweetheart and aristocratic neighbor, Orton Johnston-Hedges. They have just come from Bet's New York apartment where Addison narrowly escaped the police who sought him for questioning in connection with the whereabouts of an acquaintance and alleged forger named Jarceki. Addison makes an excellent impression upon Aunt Minnie and Mrs. Johnston-Hedges. Addison makes it clear he and his wealthy father do not get along, but Aunt Minnie doesn't know this. Bet borrows $5 from Leila to buy Addison a collar to replace the one he left in New York when he disguised himself as a girl to fool the police. To Leila's surprise the dinner goes off very pleasantly. Aunt Minnie tells Addison about the improvements and how the old residents of Fernwood Manor are trying to keep their bathing beach exclusive property. Addison is plainly shocked and thinks the bathing beach should be open to all. Jerry telephones Leila. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 19

"LOOK HERE," Jerry pursued his telephone conversation, apparently noticing her amiability. "What I wanted to ask was this: I'll be out with the dog for young Addison tomorrow around four. It seems such a shame to get an afternoon off on urgent business connected with the NRA without getting a bit of fun out of it on the side. Can't you abandon the dogs and what not, and take your car and come off somewhere with me?"

"Well..." said Leila reluctantly. "That means maybe you can. Come on—I insist. We can picnic and arrange the destinies of our wards, or we might even forget all about their damn foolishness and talk about us. Will you or will you?"

"You sound," said Leila, dropping all pretense of being unfriendly. "like getting away from it all. And that sounds to me like a million dollars."

"She will! Swell. I promise to get you away from everything which, of course, means Addy and Bet—till you say the word. Don't let them get the car away from you. He knew her pretty well already. She did let people do things to her. She laughed unwillingly.

"I won't."
"Four, then, tomorrow. Hurray!"
She returned to the porch and Aunt Minnie, feeling that life held something after all. An escape from her family, in its present condition, was a very cheering thought. She lay back and relaxed comfortably, and allowed her aunt to continue talking happily about gentlemen, uncheeked. Presently she ran down, and said alertly, "Who was on the phone, dear?"

"Addison's friend. He wants me to go driving with him tomorrow to arrange things."

Why she added this last, she didn't know.
"You mustn't make Orton too jealous," said Aunt Minnie, with obvious pleasure in the idea. "Not that a little isn't a good thing. I remember when I went driving in Rob Alston's phaeton..."

One didn't have to listen; one only had to assent at intervals. A car made the noise of a perfect parking before her house. The door clicked that subdued and perfect click which betokened Orton's high-powered car. The steps up the walk betokened that here was Orton back; this one day Aunt Minnie was to have her gentlemen till the late hour of evening.

Leila pulled herself out of her chair and went to the steps to meet him so that her aunt would not vanish in her too-obtrusive customary way. Orton's handsome blond countenance reflected a little extra pleasure; Leila did not often come out to meet him.

"I went off without seeing you," he said. "I can't stay now, I'm on the way down to practice for that pool water polo match they're pulling off at five next week. Wish me luck. I just dropped in to ask if you didn't want to have a few rounds of golf with me, and have dinner and dance a little at the country club afterwards. Not tomorrow night, I'm tied up. Wear that black organdy—bring it, rather."

Treats like this didn't come any oftener to her than Orton could bring them, because dogs and housework take your time, and little as being financially straitened may mean to the soul, its actual results are that you can't pay to belong to things. Being a very eligible male indeed, Orton's tactful selection of Leila Madison, who, handsome, spirited and gay as she was, had slipped a little from the center of their group by reason of Grandfather Madison's financial errors, was something which Leila had always thought pretty fine. So many of the girls with everything on earth wanted him.

Bet had been a little catty over it. "It gives Orton a wonderful kick to feel he's condescending a little," she had said, unexpectedly taking her mind off herself on one occasion when Orton was beginning to single out Leila. "Anyway, you keep getting your name in the papers over prize dogs like nobody's business, and that thrills him, too. He loves publicity like a kitten loves a hot rock. Oh, I don't deny you're attractive if men like your type, and of course you feel that attracting men matters—"

Aunt Minnie had for once in her meek life pounced at that.

"If you deny it matters, you are denying a very foolish thing," she said.

"Oh, Bet wants to be hated by the state," Leila had said flippantly, little realizing how near she was to Bet's actual mating by hand, so to speak. And the impending row had blown over.

But as Leila smiled now, and continued to be languid about coming—after all, he was picking the night that suited him, not her, it struck her for the first time—he urged more heartily still. He hadn't been urgent as this since the time that western boy rushed her so at the Keane's dance in January.

"I'd like the dining and dancing," she said, "but the way I feel tonight the sight of a golf ball would make me howl."

"Oh, well," he said tolerantly. "You'll have time to get over that, my dear. A couple of days' rest—girls go too hard today, as the mater is always saying. A little gaiety is all right, but not too much."

"Gayety!"
"Oh, well, I know you look after your dogs and all that—but you really shouldn't do so much about it. Get a man to do more of the work."

"One half never knows how the other half lives," said Leila. "Dear Orton, I am about to utter a phrase you have probably never heard since you were a dear little boy in an expensive Oliver Twist suit. I can't afford to."

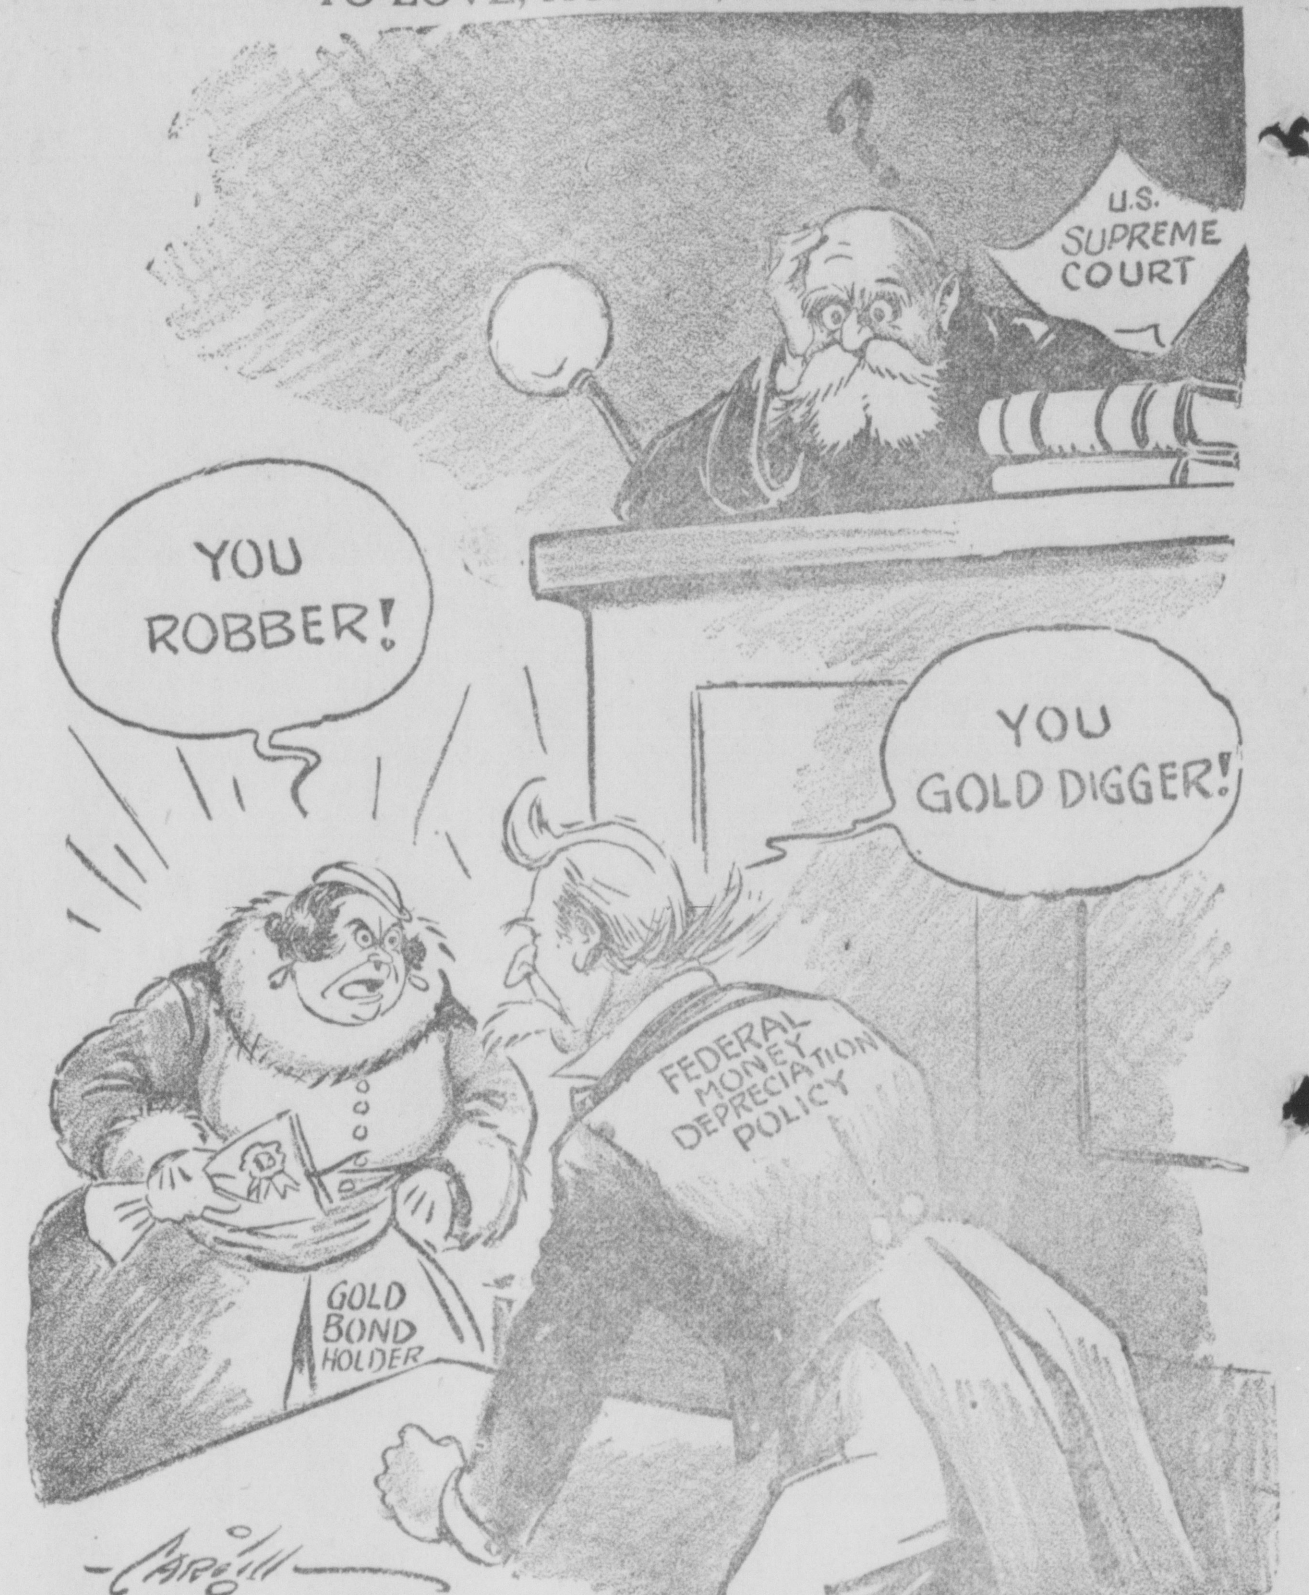

"Cut down," said Orton brightly, "somewhere else."

She sank down on the porch step. "Whatever my guilty gaieties may have been," she said, "they have fired me beyond talking on my feet any longer. If you want to say more, sit down by me, or else come over and share the charm of your society with Aunt Minnie."

He showed a little alarm.
"Oh, I say—Miss Minnie's a dear, but—look here, I want to ask you about some things, and I think I have time to drive round by the sound and back."

BEING POLITE

Jimson had lived in his new house but a few weeks, and scarcely knew his neighbors at the time of the fire. Rushing out into the street, he found two of them already on the scene.

"I say," he said to one of them, "would you mind running up the street and giving the alarm?"

"Sorry," was the reply, "but I have a wooden leg, and can't run."

Jimson turned to the other neighbor.

"Will you run up the street and shout 'Fire!'?" he asked desperately.

"I'm suffering from laryngitis," replied the other in a hoarse whisper.

There was not a moment to spare, but Jimson found time to turn to them and say politely: "Suppose both of you go into my house and bring out a couple of easy chairs and sit down in the garden and enjoy the blaze."

CAN SOUTH MAKE GAME?

YESTERDAY I entered the Knickerbocker Whist club just in season to find George Kling (South) playing the following hand at 4-Spades, with Harold Mortimer as partner, and Julian Goldman at the left, while Eli Nadelman sat East. The hand is an interesting one.

♥ A 10 6
♦ K Q 7
♣ J 8 6 3

♠ J 9 5
♥ J 9 8 7
♣ A Q 10

♠ 10 4 2
♥ A 10 6
♦ K Q 7
♣ J 8 6 3

Bidding went: South, 1-Spade; West, 2-Clubs; North, 2-Spades; East, 3-Diamonds; South, 4-Spades.

West led his singleton diamond. Dummy split honors, by playing the Q, and East was in with his Ace. East led back his K of clubs. West denied wanting an immediate second exit club. East then led his J of diamonds and West ruffed, winning the third defensive trick. He led back the Q of clubs. East played the 5 and South ruffed.

The Ace and K of spades dropped all opposing trumps. A low spade put dummy in with the 10, giving the declarer his fourth trick. Dummy's K of diamonds allowed the declarer to discard his lowest heart. Then dummy's lowest club was led and ruffed. West had discarded 2 clubs on the third round of spades and the K of diamonds. Of course West followed suit when the club was led and ruffed. What East did is of no importance, except his 2 clubs when South ruffed a lead.

that suit showed East held no more of the suit and that West held the bare Ace.

Nine tricks had been played, of which South had won 6. To fulfill his contract he had to win all 4 remaining tricks. The 4 cards left in each hand were as shown below. South had to lead, knowing that West held the Ace of clubs and 3 hearts, while East held 2 hearts and 2 diamonds.

♠ A 10 6
♥ J 9 8
♣ K 5 3

When Kling led his last spade each of the other players had to discard. If West let go his top club the J must become good in dummy. If West let go one of his hearts there would be 3 heart tricks coming to the declarer, by discarding dummy's J of clubs. West was hopeless. He had to hold his top club. Dummy led a club and the declarer won 3 heart tricks and game.

Old and Modern Methods Of Treatment for Diabetes

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

HOW DIFFERENTLY the announcement that he has diabetes is received by a patient today in comparison to the prospect which the verdict indicated only a few years ago! In my own time I have seen patients blanch and faint away, even threaten suicide, when the diagnosis was disclosed. Nowadays, the patient knows or soon learns that it does not mean any curtailment of his activities or shortening of his life. It means a moderate amount of self-sacrifice in eating, natural to and, under any circumstances, beneficial, to those after middle life, who constitute the majority of patients with the disease.

No attempt of any kind to treat the disease was made until John Rollo, an English army surgeon, in 1791 proposed a diet to consist of animal food principally and to be thus regulated:

"BREAKFAST—One and a half pints of milk and half a pint of lime water, mixed together.
"NOON—Plain blood puddings made of blood and suet only.
"DINNER—Game or old meats which have been long kept, and as far as the stomach may bear, fat and rancid old meats, as pork. To eat in moderation.
"SUPPER—The same as breakfast."

From Doctor Rollo's long account of his first case, we find that a situation arose with which the most modern medical attendant still has to deal. The patient, Captain Meredith, broke rules. He decided to eat what he liked. And he got worse. Then he died.

"The patient was strongly remonstrated with and told the consequence of repeated deviations. Fair promises were therefore renewed, and absolute confinement to the house, entire animal food, were prescribed and agreed upon."

Nowadays things can be made much pleasanter for such a patient. Captain Meredith broke over principally because he liked bread, and would eat it. In our time we have plenty of kinds of diabetic bread, just as palatable as ordinary bread. We could change and improve our diet in other ways. We would down on the amount of fat he ate, and we would give him some vegetables—vegetables, indeed, that he had never heard of, which had not been introduced into common use in his time, and delicious ones—tomatoes, snails, broccoli, watercress, grapefruit, spinach, avocados, bananas, onions, etc.

THE MODERN HOME
Willie—Ma, can I have Tommy Skidmore come over to our house to play Saturday?

Ma—No; you make out together too much noise and you tear the whole house to pieces. You'd better go over to his house to play.

Shaw—That was hard on Stithers.
Fshaw—What was?

Shaw—He slipped down on a banana peel on the sidewalk in front of the movie theater and was arrested for giving a public performance without a license.

Breads to Serve With Coffee and Tea Are Important, Declares Mrs. Thurn

Dear Friends in Circleville:

How many times has your guest exclaimed, "Oh, how delicious!" and how "just right!" these are! These in any case being some unusual and attractive bread accompanying the beverage. I call them breads, for the term covers a multitude of good things which are my favorites with coffee and tea. Try them on the family breakfasts too, and for the lunch box, and for the supper snack before bed.

You probably have a good recipe for cinnamon buns, but this one is delicious; try it this week:

One cake compressed yeast; one half cup lukewarm milk; one egg; one fourth cup sugar; one fourth teaspoon salt; two tablespoons melted shortening; two and one half cups flour; one fourth cup shredded almonds.

For the mixture to spread on the rolls: three tablespoons softened butter; three fourths cup brown sugar; two teaspoons cinnamon; one fourth cup seedless raisins; two tablespoons brown sugar.

Soften the yeast in one fourth cup of the lukewarm milk; add the remainder of the milk, the well beaten egg, sugar, salt and melted shortening; stir in the flour. Set the mixture in a warm place and allow to stand for about two hours. When it has doubled in bulk, turn out on a floured board and knead well. Then roll into two rectangular sheets about eight by ten inches and about one fourth inch thick.

Spread each sheet with about one third of the mixture of the softened butter, thoroughly mixed with the cinnamon and sugar. Sprinkle with the raisins if they are desired. Make a long roll of this dough and cut in slices about one inch thick, cutting with a sharp knife. The pan to be used for baking should be rubbed generously with shortening and then should be sprinkled with two tablespoons of brown sugar.

Arrange the rolls in the pan and spread with the remainder of the sugar, butter and cinnamon mixture. Sprinkle with the shredded almonds and allow to rise for about one hour. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, until delicately browned. Turn out on a cake rack on waxed paper bottom side up, so that the syrup from the pan remains on the rolls. Makes twenty-one small rolls. Use a pan about eight inches square.

Danish Coffee Cake
Two cups flour; one and one half teaspoons salt; two teaspoons baking powder; one third cup shortening; one fourth cup sugar; two eggs; one fourth cup milk; one fourth cup currants; one egg white; one fourth cup blanched almonds, chopped; one tablespoon sugar; candied orange peel.

Sift the flour, salt and baking powder together. Work in the shortening with spatula or a blender. Beat the sugar with the two eggs. Make a hole in the center of the flour and stir in the egg mixture, then the milk and currants. Mix thoroughly. Form into a crescent shaped roll to fit into a layer cake pan. Rub the pan with shortening first. Then brush the top of the roll with the egg white slightly beaten, shave bits of candied orange peel and sprinkle with the nuts and sugar mixed together. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees F., for twenty to thirty minutes.

Gingerbread
One half cup shortening; one half cup sugar; one cup molasses; two eggs; three fourths cup hot water; three cups sifted flour; one teaspoon salt; one half teaspoon soda; two teaspoons baking powder; one teaspoon ginger; one teaspoon ground cloves; one teaspoon cinnamon.

Put the shortening, sugar and molasses and eggs into a mixing bowl together and blend in one beating. Stir in the hot water, soda, spices and flour sifted with baking powder to the first mixture. Stir briskly until smooth. Pour immediately into the shallow baking pan rubbed with shortening and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for thirty minutes. Cut in thin strips and serve with orange marmalade.

Nut Bread
Three cups flour; three teaspoons baking powder; one cup sugar; one teaspoon cinnamon; one teaspoon salt; one egg; one and one half cups milk; one cup nuts, chopped; one cup raisins or currants; two tablespoons melted shortening.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, sugar, cinnamon and salt together. Beat eggs and add milk; stir liquid into the flour mixture and mix well; add nuts, currants and raisins. Pour into a bread pan, let stand one half hour and bake in a moderate oven, 325 degrees, fifty to sixty minutes.

Filled Coffee Cake
Three cups flour; three teaspoons baking powder; one teaspoon salt; one fourth teaspoon each nutmeg and cinnamon; three fourths cup sugar; one fourth cup shortening; two eggs, beaten; one cup milk; one cup cream, whipped and sweetened.

Sift together first six ingredients. Mix in shortening, using a fork. Add eggs and milk slowly to make a soft dough. Place in greased deep round cake pan. Cover with Top Mixture. Bake in moderate oven at 400 degrees F. about forty-five minutes. Cool; split in half to make two layers; put together with whipped cream.

Top Mixture
Two tablespoons butter; two thirds cup brown sugar; three tablespoons flour; one half teaspoon cinnamon; one eighth teaspoon salt; three fourths cup chopped almonds.

Cream butter. Add sugar, flour, cinnamon and salt. Mix well. Spread over top of cake; sprinkle with almonds.

French Coffee Cake
Three cups flour; one half cup sugar; three teaspoons baking powder; one teaspoon salt; one half cup shortening; grated rind of one orange; one half cup orange juice; two eggs; one third cup scalded milk; one cup orange marmalade.

Sift dry ingredients together. Add shortening mixing in with a fork. Soak orange rind in juice a few minutes. Beat one egg and one egg yolk slightly; add orange juice and rind, then add milk. Add to dry mixture; mix well. Put into one very large or two smaller greased, shallow baking pans to thickness of about one inch. Spread top with remaining egg white beaten into marmalade. Bake in hot oven at 450 degrees F. for twenty-five minutes. Break into squares and serve warm.

Oven-Cooked Soups

The French are responsible for the fact that we utilize meat juices for tasty broths and as a foundation for soups. However, practically every nation has its own characteristic soup.

Soups may be used either as the main dish of the meal, or as an appetizer served at the beginning of a meal. When used as a main dish, vegetables and bits of meat usually are left in the broth which is slightly thickened by rice, barley, noodles or some starchy vegetable. When used as an appetizer at the beginning of the meal, the fat is removed and the soup usually is cleared.

When meat is used as a base for soup stock, the juices should be extracted as the meat is cooking. The meat should be placed in cold water, brought to the boiling point and simmered slowly for a long period of time. This is easily accomplished when you use a range that has a thermostat on the oven. Make the soup while the meat is being prepared and reheated the soup just before serving, or prepare the soup and serve it immediately upon removing it from the oven.

Bean Soup
1 lb. dried beans 1/2 tsp. pepper
9 C. water 2 Tbsp. fat
1 tsp. salt 2 Tbsp. flour
1 pound end of ham

Soak any kind of dried beans over night. Drain them the next morning. Put them in the soup kettle with water, salt, pepper and end of ham which has been skinned. Onion juice or other seasoning may be added, if desired. Cover and place in the oven at 275 degrees for 3 hours. Remove from the oven and strain. Cream the butter and flour together. Add one cup of warm soup stock slowly stirring constantly. Then pour this slowly into the soup which has been placed over a low flame on top burner. Stir until it reaches the boiling point to cook the flour. Constant stirring avoids lumps.

Potato Soup
1 C. diced potatoes
1 qt. meat stock
2 Tbsp. chopped parsley
1 tsp. chopped onion
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper

Cook the stock, potatoes and onion together in the oven for two hours at 375 degrees. Add the chopped parsley and onion. Heat to boiling point and serve. If the potatoes are cooked too rapidly, the cubes will be broken and the soup will not have an appetizing appearance.

Vegetable Soup
8 C. cold water 1 onion
2 C. carrots 1 Tbsp. salt
2 C. celery 1/2 tsp. pepper
1 knuckle of veal

Place the knuckle of veal, which has been cracked by the butcher, in a kettle large enough to hold the above ingredients. Sear the meat in the oven at 500 degrees for 15 minutes. Prepare vegetables while meat is searing. Add cold water, vegetables and seasonings to the veal. Cover the kettle and place in the oven for 3 hours at 275 degrees. This soup does not make a fat broth.

OMELETS FOR ALL OCCASIONS

This recipe is especially dependable; to make it, use six eggs; whites and yolks beaten separately the white stiff; one half cup milk; one tablespoon oil; two tablespoons granulated tapioca; one half teaspoon of salt; one fourth teaspoon pepper; two drops tabasco sauce.

Add the tapioca and seasonings to the milk and cook for ten minutes. Cool, add to the beaten egg yolks and cream, then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Heat the omelet pan, melt two tablespoons of shortening in it, pour in the omelet and cook slowly for five or six minutes. Fold and serve on a hot platter. Garnish with chili sauce in which chopped green peppers are mixed; or with chopped parsley.

Constipation, Due to Insufficient "Bulk," Relieved by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

A fine letter from Mrs. Snyder: "I have had trouble" with my bowels for years, taking all kinds of pills and drugs, with no relief. "One year ago, I saw Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and bought a package. I have good movements every day. I am 73 years old. I am telling my friends what bran has done for me."—Mrs. Sallie Snyder, 913 N. Craft Ave., Hollywood, Cal.

"Constipation due to insufficient 'bulk' in meals.

Research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B, as well as iron, an element of the blood.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient to correct common constipation. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables. How much better to use this food in place of patent medicines.

Spanish Omelet
One medium sized tomato; one small green pepper; one half onion; two sprigs parsley; ten stuffed olives; six canned mushrooms; salt and pepper; four eggs; one stalk celery. Peel the tomato, add the pepper, onion, parsley, celery, olives and mushrooms and chop all together in the chopping bowl. Place the mixture in a saucepan, add seasonings and stew together for three minutes. Beat the eggs, mushrooms, the milk, cream, salt, put them in the omelet pan and as soon as they begin to cook add the chopped vegetables. Finish as for the plain omelet above.

Mushroom Omelet
One cup canned mushrooms, or fresh mushrooms which have been sautéed in a little butter until brown; one tablespoon shortening; one half cup milk or cream; one half teaspoon pepper; one tablespoon flour; plain omelet as above; one teaspoon salt.

Cut the mushrooms in 1/4 bits, melt the fat in a saucepan, add the mushrooms, the milk, cream, salt, and pepper and the flour which has been mixed to a paste with a little cold milk. Cook for five minutes, then keep hot until the omelet is made. Spread the mushroom mixture over the omelet just before serving.

WATERLOO '5' ASHVILLE FOE AT 9 TONIGHT

Huge Crowd Expected; Tigers Invade Grandview; Scioto Team Wins.

All eyes on Ashville tonight. The Waterloo Wonders, coached by Magellan Hairston, and recognized as one of the greatest cage teams in Ohio, travel to Ashville tonight for the epic basketball game of the current season.

Play starts at 9 o'clock with no reserved seats offered. All are available to the first persons to claim them. That there will be a great crowd is certain.

What chance the Ashville team has of winning is uncertain. Waterloo has a great team, sensational and fast, while Ashville has a mighty good team, too. Most sports followers are granting the Waterloo team an edge, but some would not be surprised to see Ashville surprise the invaders.

UP TO SCHOOLS
The Waterloo offense is unorthodox, but effective. Ashville's offense is built around Jim Scoles, its star center, while Orlyn Roberts, center and forward is Waterloo's chief threat.

The lineups at the start of the game will probably be:
ASHVILLE
Young F. W. Roberts
Petibone C. Drummond
Scoles C. O. Roberts
Steinbrook G. McMahon
Baker G. Wiseman
Referee, Griffith.

Circleville high school eaglers, varsity and reserve, travel to Grandview tonight where the Tigers will try to prove their defeat of Boxley by a 26-19 score was not a mere flash in the pan.

Grandview is leading the league and possesses three scoring threats Ray, center, and Thacker and Taylor, forwards.

Coach Herberholz will probably continue the same lineup he used Tuesday evening, Kirwin and Grant, forwards; Melson, center; Speakman and John Jenkins, guards.

SCIOTO WINS TWO
Scioto-two boys and girls, defeated last week by Pickaway's teams, turned the tables Thursday evening on Williamsport and won a pair of contests.

The defeat handed the Williamsport boys was their first of the year. The score was 34-24 with Gulick starring for the Commercial team.

The Scioto girls won 53-7 with Carfrey in the leading role.

Bowling News

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

RECALL RECENT VISIT
The appearance of the House of David basketball team on the C. A. ## OHIO SWIMMERS TO MEET CINCINNATI

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18—After their trip through the east during the past Christmas vacation, members of the Ohio State University swimming team are practicing daily in the Ohio State natatorium. Coach Mike Peppe is priming his swimmers for a dual meet with the University of Cincinnati aquatic squad to be held in the Queen City Saturday afternoon, Jan. 26.

Captain George Colville will lead the Ohio Staters, swimming his specialty, the breast stroke. He is assisted in this event by Russ Kibbert who was formerly a high school swimmer in Cincinnati. In the back stroke, Charles Sallio, another Cincinnati product, will swim in number one position with Harry Volk, a veteran of last year's team, assisting.

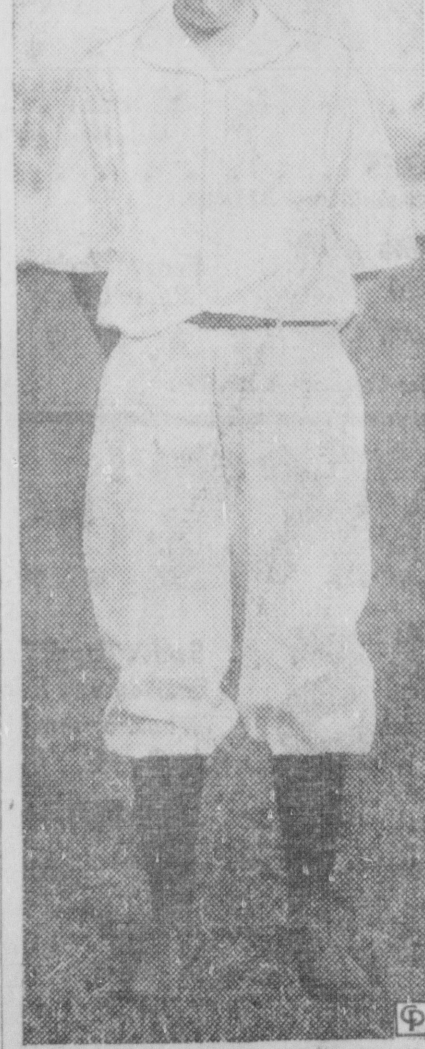

Dexter Woodford, star of the eastern meets, will perform in the distance free style events along with Dick Figley, another veteran. Free-style sprint specialists on the Buckeye squad are George Burrell, Baker Bryant, Homer Hagaman, Ray Kessler, and Jim Williams. Coach Peppe's divers include Boyd Graham, Harry Kallman, and Fred Walton.

In preparation for the Cincinnati meet the Ohio State varsity will tangle with the freshman in the Ohio State tank Saturday afternoon.

Landis May Be Called To Rule on Boston Case

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—If the owners of the various National league ball clubs can't reach a satisfactory solution today over the muddled situation created by the effort of the Boston Braves to race dogs in their ball park, there is one man who can and will settle the question for them—Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of the game.

GELBERT TO TRY FOR CARD OUTFIT

DR. HEIN ELECTED

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18—Dr. C. C. Hein, Columbus, president of the American Lutheran church, was named president of the National Lutheran Council at a meeting in New York. The council voted to ask 2,000,000 members of Lutheran churches to withhold their patronage from indecent motion pictures.

SPYING on SPORTS

Central Press Sports Writer
Attacks by American swimmers on national and world records argues against repetition of supremacy in water events of the Olympic games in Germany next year by Japanese who ruled the waves in 1932 at Los Angeles.

The little brown men, who were reported by hysterical patriots to be using oxygen as a stimulant in the 1932 games, will have to think up some pretty potent cocktail if they hope to match aquatic strides in 1936 with Ralph Planagan and others who recently lowered 25 A. A. U. national and two world records in the Miami-Biltmore pool at Coral Gables, Fla. Perhaps the Orientals could find the required "pick-up" at one of our enterprising horse tracks, where daily, I am told, at least one of the races is so patronized by hopped horses it is called by the talent the Drug Store Derby.

Or Should It?
Alarm over Japanese ingenuity perhaps should prompt our Olympic authorities to demand the saliva test when the swimmers do their stuff under the swastika.

Review of the recent Florida program reveals some remarkable accomplishments by Flanagan, Eleanor Holm Jarrett, Lenore Knight, Alice Bridges, Katherine Rawls and members of the New York Women's Swimming association team composed of Elsie Ferril, Janice Lifson, Elizabeth Harrison and Dorothea Dickinson.

Records were cut by whole seconds. For instance, Alice Bridges reduced the 500-meter free style national mark from Helene Madison's 7:22 3/5 to 7:08 1/5, a slash of 14 2/5 seconds, which is a long time in the water.

Other marks were shaved correspondingly, the relay team cutting a 13-year-old mark in the 400-yard long course event by almost 10 seconds.

The story of the Japanese and their oxygen, which was common talk around the stadium in Los Angeles three years ago, is not to be taken too seriously, of course. The Japanese showed a striking new style at Los Angeles, and Johnny Weissmuller, who worked out with them, discounted the tales of doping as pure fiction. But there was some hullabaloo about it, you remember.

A three-day course for nurserymen and landscape gardeners is offered by the department of horticulture of the Ohio State University. No fee is charged.

The St. Louis federal grand jury indictment of a group of big show movie moguls that appears on the surface.

part of a drive to hurry Will Hays out of his job as czar of the industry.

The recent, little-noticed deporation of some European stars is cited as another phase of the same thing. And it is intimated that a flock of tax violation suits will soon follow.

That certain Democratic political chieftains have been frowning on Hays' continued reign over the movie industry is no secret.

And there was a lot of muttering around Democratic National Headquarters when the big-eared former Postmaster General and Republican National Chairman had his contract renewed in 1933.

There is much mystery about this contract.

Reports as to its duration and the salary paid Hays vary widely. One widely-circulated story puts the term at five years and the salary at $250,000 per annum, with Hays paying his expenses.

Just before the St. Louis prosecution was instituted the report was current among Democratic politicians that a big battle had taken place among the movie moguls resulting in Hays being stripped of his powers.

LEADERS MOVE TO EXEMPT LOW SALARIED OFFICIALS

MAY RESTORE SALARY CUTS

Half Would be Excluded From Cut If $2,000 Salary Would Be Set as Limit.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—In the belief that Governor Davey's proposal to re-enact the old state employees' salary reduction act is certain to encounter implacable opposition in the lower house, Democratic legislative leaders today considered exempting salaries of $2,000 or less.

Whether this would be satisfactory to the new governor, who is prepared to swing the axe on one-third of all state employees and to veto the $19,000,000 appropriation bill, unless salaries are cut, was to be determined by the leaders before the legislature reconvenes to hear Davey's first message next Tuesday.

ALL AFFECTED

Under the salary reduction act that expired last Dec. 31, all salaries were affected. Five per cent was deducted from the first $1,000, 10 per cent from the second, 12½ per cent from the third, 15 per cent from the fourth, 17½ per cent from the fifth, and 20 per cent from all over $5,000.

About half of all state employees would suffer no pay slash if a $2,000 exemption was written into the proposed economy act, it was stated at the auditor's office. Estimated annual savings to the state under the old act was roughly $1,500,000.

Democratic leaders evolved the compromise proposal after discovering much opposition to re-enactment of the former economy law, both in their own party ranks and across the aisle where the Republicans, with a majority of one, are in numerical control of the lower house.

Publicly representative groups of state employees had little to say about the governor's stand on salaries, remembering that he promised to discharge those who lobbied against the proposal to cut their pay. But privately they said plenty.

Their resentment reached its zenith at mention of another recommendation of the new governor that the $1 a gallon tax on liquor be removed. They accused him of trying to cut the cost of liquor at the expense of state employees. Oddly, the anticipated savings to liquor consumers would just about equal the aggregate amount cut from employees' salaries, if the old economy law were enacted.

out at young Tommy Sisk, the boyish department of justice agent who was on the witness stand: "Mister, mister, you stop lying! You're telling a story."

Hauptmann's voice shook with rage and his slim, muscular frame trembled. He was completely out of his chair and he had both arms extended toward Sisk. His attitude was strange combination of menace and anguished appeal. His voice was at once threatening and plaintive and his declaration ended in sort of a wail of blubbering incoherence.

Guards pulled the trembling Hauptmann back into his chair. For minutes afterward the prisoner's deep-set, beady eyes blazed with anger. Not until C. Lloyd Fisher, the defense lawyer he seems to like best, came back into the courtroom (he had just stepped out) did Hauptmann get a grip upon himself. Fisher pleaded with Hauptmann to "Please keep quiet, for God's sake," and Hauptmann was heard to mutter: "I can't stand those lies."

The courtroom seethed. Justice Trenchard's usually tranquil voice rose to a firm resonance as he said:

"I must warn the defendant that he will have to be quiet. If he has anything to say he must say it to his counsel."

Nobody in that courtroom will ever forget that scene. Veterans of murder trials for years back say they never saw anything like it. It was more melodramatic than when Judd Gray, on the stand at the famous Snyder-Gray murder trial in Long Island city, illustrated with a sashweight in his hand how he beat his inamorata's husband to death as he slept. It was more dramatic than when Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," was brought into the courtroom on a stretcher to testify at the Hall-Mills trial at Somerville, N. J.

COURT SILENT

As Hauptmann was crying out, a tense silence fell across the courtroom, broken only by the swishing of sheets of paper, frantically handed by reporters to waiting messenger boys who passed the blanks containing hastily scribbled "flashes" from one to another and out to the telegraph operators in nearby rooms.

Amid all the excitement everybody forgot Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the slain baby. When Hauptmann jumped up and shouted at Sisk, Lindbergh sat bolt upright in his chair and turned alert eyes upon the man accused of kidnapping and murdering his child. Whether Lindbergh was carrying his pistol—as he previously had done in court—was not known.

Sisk, speaking in impersonal tones, was telling the jury at the time of Hauptmann's outbreak that Hauptmann had admitted to him that he had had a secret hiding place in a stone jar under his garage where he had kept the Lindbergh ransom money before placing it in the shoe box in which the agents found it.

This was a damaging blow to Hauptmann and the prisoner realized this far ahead of the spectators in court who at first failed to grasp the significance. Hauptmann it must be remembered, has contended from the start that he did not know of the ransom money until he opened the shoe box.

Sisk was one of the men who arrested Hauptmann last September and who questioned the German carpenter in his home before any of the ransom money was found.

FISHER ANGERED

The fact that Hauptmann's lawyers are squabbling among themselves is an open secret in Philadelphia. Shortly before Hauptmann's outbreak yesterday afternoon, C. Lloyd Fisher, one of the defense attorneys, stalked out of the courtroom in indignation when Chief Defense Counsel Edward J. Reilly conceded that the body found on a lonely road several miles from the Lindbergh home on April 12, 1932, was the Lindbergh baby. This concession made the cross examination of previous witnesses seem rather ridiculous.

refused to reveal where his prisoners were being held or even the hospital to which Lagenza was taken.

It was believed they were being held at one of the police stations. Mais and Lagenza murdered the mail truck driver in Richmond last summer. Both were convicted but escaped jail in November while awaiting execution. Mais' mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Mais of Philadelphia, was indicted on a charge of assisting in the jail break.

They returned to Philadelphia and began a reign of terror in that city and Baltimore. In December they succeeded in carrying out a $48,000 payroll robbery in Philadelphia. Philadelphia police said the money was for a defense fund for seven members of the gang who had just been captured there.

JUNIOR COLLEGE IS PLANNED HERE

A meeting has been called for Memorial hall Monday, Jan. 21, at 8 p. m. by G. D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools, at which time the emergency junior college work will be discussed. Junior college level work is primarily intended for young people, who, because of financial conditions at home, are unable to attend college.

A applicant for admission to the junior college classes should present evidence that he is a graduate of a first grade high school or similarly accredited schools.

Persons of maturity, 21 or over, who in the estimation of the director of the center, are able to carry the work with profit, may be enrolled in classes even though they are not graduates of accredited secondary schools.

A semester shall consist of 18 weeks of class work, and a quarter will consist of 12 weeks of class work except where working relationships with colleges of universities allow shorter hours.

A semester hour is estimated on the basis of one class hour a week for 18 weeks; a quarter hour upon the basis of one class hour a week for 12 weeks. One class hour should be considered as at least 50 minutes of recitation.

The minimum preparation of teachers in emergency junior college centers shall be a year of graduate work in an approved graduate school in addition to a baccalaureate degree.

It is assumed, that although students attending emergency junior college centers may be unable to attend colleges and universities because of financial reasons they may nevertheless be able to buy a few books and other materials. It is asked that local service organizations be asked to help.

THE "Laxative Question"

DOCTORS SETTLED IT, LONG AGO.

UNDER the doctor's care, or in the hospital, you would get a liquid laxative. And the liquid form is what you would use at home, if you knew what a doctor knows!

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less.

Once you have experienced this comfort, you will never return to any form of help that can't be regulated to suit the need.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit—even with children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will clear up a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. You'll like its taste, and like its action. It's pleasant to take, and won't sicken you like a violent cathartic.

So, try Syrup Pepsin. Take regulated doses until Nature restores regularity. Those who have made the "liquid test" know why most doctors favor a liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Get a bottle today.

BE CAREFUL

IF any laxative makes you thirsty, affects your appetite, seems to burn, or requires larger doses than when you first began its use—change to a liquid laxative!

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Public Support For Age Security Forces President to Favor

WASHINGTON—The President will write his own ticket on the social security program, just as he is doing in the $1,000,000,000 plan for relief and public works. And for much the same reasons, namely:

Congress doesn't dare to defeat it.

The Old Guarders are being deliberately shunned when it comes to advice.

The program, while falling short of what the liberals would like to see enacted and will demand, is nevertheless much more extensive than they had expected.

That this last is so, is due to two factors:

First, the influence of Labor Secretary Perkins who is a strong advocate of far-reaching social security measures.

Second, the distinctly unfavorable reaction that greeted the President's speech before the Social Security Conference in which he indicated a marked coolness to the enactment of old-age pensions at this session.

The President, his ear acutely attuned to popular sentiment, did not fail to grasp the fact that he had slipped a cog in rebuffing old-age security.

That the Townsend plan was rolling up tremendous support also had its effect in persuading him to change his mind. It became apparent that if he didn't sponsor old-age pension program, one would be dumped into his lap by Congress.

So he recovered the ball and took the initiative.

Senate Hand-Ball

New Jersey's Senator A. Harry Moore is fond of playing hand-ball, but promises he will never again use the corridors of the Senate Office Building for a hand-ball court.

New to Washington, Jersey's former Governor has not yet found a partner for his favorite indoor sport. So he went alone to the court in the basement of the building the other day, had a work-out, took a shower and was headed back to the office, feeling fit to face the crowd of job-seekers waiting for him.

"I wasn't thinking about what I was doing," the Senator explained with a genuine blush. "I was walking along the corridor bouncing the ball in front of me, like this. . . Suddenly I looked up. There, staring with gaping mouths were a group of sightseers."

"I was giving them an eyeful—a Senator bouncing a ball in the marble corridors of the Capitol."

"Well, I've been very mindful of the dignity of my office ever since."

Paid and Unpaid

Some contributors to the Democratic National Committee get repaid—and some don't. It is interesting to check the accounts and see who is favored.

Among the largest creditors are: The National Broadcasting Company, $107,576.71.

The Columbia Broadcasting Company, $47,650.50.

Joe Kennedy, SEC Chairman, $50,000.00.

John J. Raskob, ex-chairman, $80,500.00.

Among the creditors who have been repaid are:

Emil Hurja, man Friday of Big Jim Farley, $3,000.00.

Big Jim, himself, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, "for telephone charges, contacted in behalf of the D. N. C. and personally paid for between July 1 and Aug. 5, 1934," $3,246.65.

The Committee also still owes $17,500 to Mike Benedum, Pittsburgh oil promoter, who in the meantime has been rewarded with an appointment on the NRA Planning and Coordinating Committee. He helped formulate the oil code, and is still a member of the Business Advisory and Planning Council of the Commerce Department.

Move Started to Return Pardoned Killer to Pen

CLEVELAND, Jan. 18.—A move was launched today by Assistant Prosecutor Charles J. McNamara to send "Tommy" Gerak, Cleveland killer, back to the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus.

Gerak's release, in the closing days of Governor George White's administration, has stirred wide comment in Cleveland and brought scathing criticism from the Cleveland Association for Criminal Justice.

McNamara admitted he has started a search for witnesses and victims of robberies the youth committed before the shooting that sent him to prison under a life sentence. The assistant prosecutor has located one of the victims, he said, and plans to confer with him late today.

CRIME BUREAU IN OHIO SEEN

Prosecutors, Sheriffs Hear
Dangers of Lawlessness Discussed.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18.—The second annual crime conference of county prosecutors and sheriffs here today prepared the final draft of a bill for legislative enactment.

Prosecutor Ray W. Davis was in attendance at the meeting today.

for a state bureau of criminal identification and investigation after Governor Martin L. Davey had warned them of the "dangers" of lawlessness to society.

Declaring that law enforcement was the most important function of government, Davey said "organized crime is a challenge to modern society."

"I am told," he said, "that anyone can have someone 'bumped off' for $25 or $50, and as long as that condition prevails, society is in danger."

He branded operation of the state berrillon system at the London prison farm by convicts as "false economy," adding that "this work should be handled by men who look upon the work as their career."

Davey also attacked "coddling of prisoners because they are mentally sick."

"The trouble is," he continued, "is that they have been too smart. They are all right in the mind but they lack character."

Davey reiterated his statement that a $50,000 ransom letter had been received by a prominent Ohio family in support of his plea for the crime bureau but he did not elaborate on it. Meantime, L. Clarke Schilder, department of justice official, promised federal co-operation with the state crime bureau.

LOADED TRUCK CRASHES INTO PARKED AUTOS

Three Machines Badly
Damaged As Driver of
Truck Goes to Sleep

N. COURT-ST SCENE

Denman, Chalfin, Beaty
Sustain Loss

Three automobiles were wrecked with damage to reach several hundred dollars, Thursday evening, when a beer truck, heavily loaded, crashed into the parked cars on N. Court-st. The damaged machines are the property of Robert Denman, the Cryer of C. G. Chalfin and the Hudson of Roy Beaty.

The truck driver, Harry Kent, 43, of 428 Lintz-st., Charleston, W. Va., was taken into custody for operating a motor vehicle without due regard for other vehicles. He was fined $25 and costs by Mayor W. B. Cady in a hearing Friday morning.

DROVE 24 HOURS

Further investigation of the accident looked into Kent, who is colored, told Officer Fred Fitzpatrick and Deputy Miller Fissell that he had been driving continuously since Wednesday at 10 p. m. and driven from Charleston to Findlay and was on his way back to the West Virginia city without any rest. He had no relief driver on the truck.

Kent admitted to police that he went to sleep while driving and the first thing he heard was the crash. He said the last thing he remembered was rounding the curve near the N. Court-st intersection. He was traveling south.

CARRIED 200 CASES

The two-ton International truck carrying 200 cases of Old Dutch beer, made in Findlay, struck the Beaty car first, tearing off three wheels. It then smashed into Denman's and forced it against the Chalfin machine. All the residents of the N. Court-st vicinity in which the accident happened were roused from their homes by the noise of the impact. Owners of all three cars were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bennett enjoying a "surprise" party.

Kent told officers he drove for Frank Newhouse, Charleston, of the Ohio and West Virginia Motor Freight Co. His truck was not badly damaged and not a single case of beer was broken.

Three garages claimed the three damaged automobiles.

FEDERAL MEN SMASH GANG

Series of Rapid Raids Result
In Arrest of Mals and Other
Murderers.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Department of justice agents achieved another major victory in the crime war today by capturing Robert Mals, gang leader and ruthless killer, and four members of his mob in the biggest roundup of outlaws in New York's recent history.

Acting on a tip from the New York police the agents arrested Mals, while he slept. He had been in his quarry since he killed a mail truck driver in Richmond, Va., and later escaped from jail.

The agents pounced upon him before he could use a .38 caliber revolver by his bed.

Simultaneously, in another part of the city, they captured Walter Lagenza, Mals's first lieutenant, who escaped from jail in Richmond with him after both had been convicted for murder in the mail truck case.

It was discovered that Lagenza was severely wounded from a past encounter with the law. Both his legs had been shattered in a recent gun battle with the Philadelphia police from which Mals escaped unscathed. Lagenza was taken to a New York hospital.

SWEETHEART CAUGHT

Mary McKover, Mals' pretty sweetheart, was arrested later when she called at the hospital to ask for Lagenza.

Marty Farrell, a fugitive from justice, was arrested at the same time in a midtown hotel. Farrell escaped from Eastern penitentiary, Philadelphia, after serving the long term for a fugitive from Chicago, and was captured with him.

Two other members of the mob, Frank Wiley and Charles Zeid, were captured in a gang roundup in Philadelphia last month. They are now in Eastern penitentiary at Philadelphia.

Frank N. May, head of the department of justice office in New York, commented the roundup.

CONGRESS CLEARS DECKS TO SPEED SECURITY PROGRAM

NEED 30 DAYS TO PASS PLAN

Minor Objection Raised On Various Questions; May Boost Pension Money.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—In the face of serious obstacles, the leaders today were hopeful of driving President Roosevelt's security program through Congress within 30 days.

Since Mr. Roosevelt warned that speed is essential to enable 44 legislatures to conform their laws to the program, early and probably brief hearings are planned.

The House ways and means committee hopes to begin hearings Monday while the Senate finance committee will open hearings on the measure Tuesday. This will keep the program almost continuously before both branches after the bill is reported to the House.

MAY RAISE PRICE

A drive of considerable proportions to liberalize the measure particularly to raise the proposed $30 a month old age pension to at least $50, confronted the leaders. Republican senators from western states, where the gigantic $24,000,000,000—$200 a month plan of Dr. Francis E. Townsend has taken hold, insist the program be liberalized.

The same sentiment is expressed by Senator Van Nuys (D) of Indiana and other Democratic members. The leaders are confident, however, that the Democratic majority will go along with the President who reminded Congress that the treasury's ability to pay is limited.

A revolt opened in the House when Chairman Connery (D) of Massachusetts, of the labor committee, called his body into session to report out an old-age pension plan similar to that of the administration. The committee is irked because the President's bill was not referred to it.

Connery's committee decided also to take up the unemployment insurance plan of Rep. Lundeen (F-L) of Minnesota—the third

ATLANTA NEWS

BUSINESS OBJECTS

Opposition from business interests to the President's unemployment insurance plan is expected on the ground it is far too liberal. The proposed 3 per cent tax on payrolls to finance unemployment insurance would cost industry about $600,000,000 a year. And other costs of aiding contributory old-age pension and annuity plans would increase this burden. The federal government would bear only administrative cost of the plan. But other features of the security program would cost the federal treasury $200,000,000 a year after the first year. This cost includes grants to states to aid dependent children, and strengthening of health agencies.

Under the President's proposals, unemployment insurance would be left to the states. This is made compulsory because states would lose their share of the pay-roll tax unless they have such systems.

Objections were raised in both branches to many technical features of the bill of Senator Wag-

Angels Landing

Not many years ago Angels Landing, the red pyramid that stands so conspicuously on the floor of Zion canyon in Utah's Zion National park, was inaccessible. Its very name came from its inaccessibility, for, argued the pioneers who named it, only a winged angel could ever reach its pinnacle. Engineers blasted a trail along the surface of the cliff, and visitors may now go to its peak.

Meaning of "California" is the name of the Golden State were reduced to its Spanish interpretation. It is very probable that the aggressive advertising of its climate would be largely nullified, for literally "California" is a combination of two Spanish words meaning "hot furnace," writes G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times. The Spaniards, who were the first white men to explore the state, gave to it this name because their interest was put in the cool, verdant lands of the seacoast, but in the hot, arid regions of the interior, where it was believed gold was to be found.

PATTERN 5289

by Alice Brooks
Crochet These Accessories For Bedroom or Bathroom

The bathroom today, gay in colored tile and attractive in its modern fittings, is a room of which every housewife is justly proud. By adding this lovely crocheted rug to it, it can be enhanced as well as improved in comfort. The design is so easy to follow for it is given in a clear chart. All you need is your crocheting hook—a nice big one—and white and colored candlewicking. You can, of course, use black with a color, for so many bathrooms today are decorated with black. A band for a towel is made in a harmonizing design and is to be crocheted in string. Of course, this rug does just as well for the bedroom and there is a matching design for a scarf to be done in flat crocheting in string.

In pattern 5289 you will find complete instructions and charts for making the rug, towel band and flat scarf, an illustration of them and of the stitches needed; material requirements, and color suggestions.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main-st. Circleville, O.

VETERANS AND THE BONUS

VETERANS of the World War are making an organized effort to promote interest in their side of the bonus question, even within their own ranks, and to arouse sentiment in their behalf in legislation pending in Congress.

Pickaway-co veterans held an interesting meeting in Circleville this week and discussed the bonus question from beginning to end. This meeting was sponsored by members of the American Legion, and was but one of the thousands of meetings being held throughout the United States primarily for the same purpose—to acquaint the membership, and all other ex-service men, with the provisions of the law governing the payment of the bonus, its present status, and its probable effect upon the nation as a whole.

The veterans contend that Uncle Sam owes them for services performed—a little something over and above the stipulated sum of $1 per day, and that they want to collect it in as orderly and peaceable manner as possible. They have followed the legislation of Congress, often without much voice in the matter, to learn that six years after the war was over the bonus bill was passed providing for payment in the year 1945, with interest. Provision was later made for soldiers to borrow a certain portion of their bonus. At that time only a small per cent of the men who served in the war actually needed the money, but things looked different when the depression came on and thousands were thrown out of employment. It was then believed that immediate payment of the bonus claims in cash would be of great benefit to individual soldiers and would also aid business conditions in general by putting two billions of dollars into circulation throughout the country.

Opponents of the immediate payment of the bonus want to know where the government is going to get the money, and the soldiers say that's no concern of theirs—to get it the same way provisions are made for the other large expenditures.

Veterans' organizations are seemingly better prepared than ever before to carry on the fight. Their campaign of education as to just what the bonus is, what it is for, and the probable result of its immediate payment, is bound to have weight with the public and with the law-makers.

Local veterans are sincere in their belief that the bonus should be paid now instead of waiting until 1945, and are proceeding on the theory that if the money is coming to them they want to collect it.

NATURE DID HER BEST

OF all nature's mistakes man himself is probably the most serious, a British scientist tells the British Association for the Advancement of Science, and yet, of all the creatures that depend on nature for life and sustenance man alone feels competent to patronize the universal mother and point out her mistakes.

Many unscientific minds agree with the scientist in his belief that nature blundered in producing a "big-brained animal with hands," who has turned out to be "more trouble than he is worth" and whose skill and cunning have created problems which he is not able to solve.

This is probably arguing the point of view of those who think that the world and everything in it are accidents without point or purpose. Under the deistic conception of a purpose that inspires progress, man is supposed to be an improvement over everything that has gone before him—the divinity work of the Creator.

Isn't this man of science a little hard on his own species? But the human race hasn't lived up to his own definition of "human," but, whatever the purpose of it all, it has climbed a level or two in its long evolution. Man is far from perfection in his own eyes, which shows what his purpose is.

MORE AND BETTER CARS

NEW York's annual automobile show, the most important of the trade promotion enterprises staged by this industry, has closed with all interested parties in the highest of spirits. Incidentally, the show's success is significant of the progress of national recovery.

Every exhibitor participating in the New York show reports a substantial increase in sales as compared with last year. These gains range from 50 per cent to 200 per cent and even better. And they are not confined to the lowest-priced cars.

For the first time in seven years the trend in more expensive cars has turned definitely upward and in certain of these industries more men are employed at the present time than at the peak of production last year.

This situation in the automobile industry reflects an undeniable improvement in general business situation. Primarily, however, it is a reflection of the courage and the enterprise of the automobile industry, which kept its head up and fought desperately even in the darkest days of the depression.

All that can be said of the processes of justice in Russia is that they are rapid.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Tecumseh Millar 78, prominent farmer and stockman, died at his residence on Court-st. The Millar family had a prominent place in the history and early settlement of Pickaway-co.

The mercury dropped to five degrees below zero, the coldest weather of the winter. Two inches of snow fell preceding the cold wave.

A broken high tension wire, caused by extreme cold weather, disrupted service on the Scioto Valley traction line for several hours.

15 YEARS AGO

City finances were reported low and local business men met with the city council to discuss appropriations to meet a deficit of longing to Jerry Spangler of Burlington was destroyed by fire presumably starting from a short circuit in the wiring.

County Treasurer W. M. Reid reported receiving $84,000 in taxes in one day, the largest amount received in one day during the tax year.

25 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Valentine and son, Loren, and daughters, Ida May and Louise, and Mrs. Valentine's mother, Mrs. Ida Baker, left with a Columbus party for their new home in San Pedro, Isle of Pines, where they expected to start an orange and grape fruit grove on an 80-acre tract of land.

Little Sister

by MARGARET WIDDERMER

READ THIS FIRST:

Leila Madison, an orphan, has been trying to halt the chase of her reckless young sister, Leila, who Addison Huntington, a romantic, idealistic, Jerry Redmond, a newspaper reporter, has been helped by because of his friendship for Leila's brother who was Jerry's roommate at Yale. They are all at Leila's home in Westchester where Addison and Jerry meet Aunt Minnie and Mrs. Johnston-Heddes, mother of Leila's sweetheart and aristocratic neighbor, Orton Johnston-Heddes. They have just come from Leila's New York apartment where Addison narrowly escaped the police who sought him for questioning in connection with the whereabouts of an acquaintance and alleged former named Jack. Addison makes it clear he and his wealthy father do not get along, but Aunt Minnie doesn't know this. But her $5 from Leila to buy Addison a collar to replace the one he left in New York is a disgrace to her. To Leila's surprise the dinner goes off very pleasantly. Aunt Minnie tells Addison about the improvements and how the old residents of Fernwood Manor are trying to keep their bathing beach exclusive property. Addison is plainly shocked and thinks the bathing beach should be open to all. Jerry telephones Leila. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 19

"LOOK HERE!" Jerry pursued his telephone conversation, apparently noticing her amiability. "What I wanted to ask was this: I'll be out with the dog for young Addison tomorrow around four. It seems such a shame to get an afternoon off on urgent business connected with the NRA without getting a bit of fun out of it on the side. Can't you abandon the dog and what not, and take your car and come off somewhere with me?" "Well," said Leila reluctantly. "That means maybe you can. Come on—I insist. We can picnic and arrange the destinies of our wards, or we might even forget all about their damn foolishness and talk about us. Will you or will you?" "You sound," said Leila, dropping all pretense of being unfriendly, "like getting away from it all. And that sounds to me like a million dollars."

"She will! Swell! I promise to go out away from everything, which, of course, means Abby and Bert—till you say the word. Don't let them get the car away from you. He knew her pretty well already. She did let people do things to her. She behaved gradually."

"I won't," Jerry said. "Four then, tomorrow. Hurrah!" She returned to the porch and Aunt Minnie, noting that life held something for her all. An escape from her family, in its present condition, was a very pleasing thought. She lay back and relaxed comfortably, and allowed her mind to continue talking happily about gentlemen, uncles, and a good thing. "I remember when I went driving in Rob. Alston's phaeton."

"Addison's friend. He wants me to go driving with him tomorrow. I arranged that."

Why she added this last, she didn't know. "You mustn't make Orton too jealous," said Aunt Minnie, with obvious pleasure in the idea. "Not that a little isn't a good thing. I remember when I went driving in Rob. Alston's phaeton."

One didn't have to listen; one only had to attend at intervals. A car made the noise of a perfect parking before her house. The door clicked and Addison and perfect click which betokened Orton's high-powered car. The steps up the walk betokened that here was Orton back; this one day Aunt Minnie was to have her gentlemen till the late hour of evening.

Leila pulled herself out of her chair and went to the steps to meet him so that her aunt would not witness in her too-obtrusive customary way. Orton's handsome blond countenance reflected a little extra pleasure. Leila did not often come out to meet him.

"I went off without seeing you," he said. "I can't stay now. I'm on the way down to practice for that pool water polo match they're pulling off at Rye next week. Wish me luck. I just dropped in to ask if you didn't want to have a few rounds of golf with me, and have dinner and dance a little at the country club afterwards. Not tomorrow night, I'm tied up. Wear that black orsandy—bring it, rather."

Treats like this didn't come any oftener to her than Orton could bring them, because dogs and housework take your time, and little as being financially straitened may seem to the soul, its actual results are that you can't pay to belong to things. Being a very eligible male indeed, Orton's tact selection of Leila Madison, who, handsome, suited and gay as she was, had slipped a little from the center of their group by reason of Orton's coming to the seat. # WATERLOO '5' ASHVILLE FOE AT 9 TONIGHT

Huge Crowd Expected; Tigers Invade Grandview; Scioto Team Wins.

All eyes on Ashville tonight. The Waterloo Wonders, coached by Magellan Hairston, and recognized as one of the greatest cagers in Ohio, travel to Ashville tonight for the epic basketball game of the current season.

Play starts at 9 o'clock with no reserved seats offered. All are available to the first person to claim them. That there will be a great crowd is certain.

What chance the Ashville team has of winning is uncertain. Waterloo has a great team, sensational and fast, while Ashville has a mighty good team, too. Most sports followers are granting the Waterloo team an edge, but some would not be surprised to see Ashville surprise the invaders.

UP TO SCOTLES

The Waterloo offense is unorthodox, but effective. Ashville's defense is built around Jim Scoles, its star center, while Orlyn Roberts, center and forward is Waterloo's chief threat.

The lineups at the start of the game will probably be:

ASHVILLE
 Young, F. W. Roberts
 Peilphone, F. Drummond
 Scoles, C. O. Roberts
 Steinbrook, G. McMahon
 Baker, G. Wiseman
 Referee, Griffith.

Circleville high school cagers, victory and reserve, travel to Grandview tonight where the Tigers will try to prove their defeat of Exley by a 28-19 score was not a mere flash in the pan.

Grandview is leading the league and possesses three scoring threats in center, and Thacker and Taylor, forwards.

Coach Herberholz will probably continue the same lineup he used Tuesday evening. Kirwin and Smith, forwards; Melson, center; Beckman and John Jenkins, guards.

SCIOTO WINS TWO

Scioto-two boys and girls, defeated last week by Pickaway's girls, turned the tables Thursday evening on Williamsport and won a pair of contests.

The defeat handed the Williamsport boys was their first of the year. The score was 34-24 with Gulick starring for the Commercial team.

The Scioto girls won 53-7 with Carrey in the leading role.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

RECALL RECENT VISIT

The appearance of the House of David basketball team on the C. A. C. court February 4 recalls the great team which came here a few years ago. The House of David crew that invaded the court at that time was one of the finest seen here in a long while. It is certain, no C. A. C. team will have a battle on its hands.

MORE ELIGIBILITY

From Columbus that Pearl Mangini, Central high school cager has been declared ineligible because of age brings to mind Columbus schools for a long while have been rather lax about their age limits. In fact, Lancaster and other schools in the central Ohio district are very lax about playing in tournaments with the Columbus schools.

MOUNT UNION STRONG

One of the fastest basketball teams in Ohio is found at Mt. Union, Alliance. The Mounts defeated a strong Wooster college team only 43-21. Thursday evening. Ellsworth 'Red' Trego is a regular on the Capital university team. Trego is a Commercial Point youth who is a Commercial Point youth who is a Commercial Point youth.

MAY BECOME COACH

Don't be surprised if you learn in a short time that Howard White has accepted a job as assistant coach for an eastern college.

OHIO SWIMMERS TO MEET CINCINNATI

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18—After their trip through the east during the past Christmas vacation members of the Ohio State University swimming team are practicing daily in the Ohio State natatorium. Coach Mike Peppe is priming his swimmers for a dual meet with the University of Cincinnati aquatic squad to be held at the Queen City Saturday afternoon, Jan. 26.

Captain George Colville will lead the Ohio Staters, swimming his specialty, the breast stroke. He is assisted in this event by Russ Kibbert, who was formerly a high school swimmer in Cincinnati. In the back stroke, Charles Sals, another Cincinnati product, will swim in number one position with Harry Volk, a veteran of last year's team, assisting.

Dexter Woodford, star of the eastern meets, will perform in the distance free style events along with Dick Figley, another veteran. Free-style sprint specialists on the Buckeye squad are George Burrell, Baker, Bryant, Homer Hagaman, Ray Kessler, and Jim Williams. Coach Peppe's divers include Boyd Graham, Harry Kailman, and Fred Walton.

In preparation for the Cincinnati meet the Ohio State varsity will tangle with the freshman in the Ohio State tank Saturday afternoon.

LUND AFTER JOB

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 18—Francis "Pug" Lund, all-American halfback and captain of the undefeated Minnesota football team last fall, today was reported to be a candidate for the job of head football coach and athletic director at Missouri State college.

Landis May Be Called To Rule on Boston Case

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—If the owners of the various National league ball clubs can't reach a satisfactory solution today over the muddled situation created by the effort of the Boston Braves to have one man who can and will settle the question for them—Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of the game. Few people in this country realize the limitless powers in baseball possessed by this shaggy, white-haired wispy of a man.

Mussolini, Stalin and Hitler have been rated fair hands at this dictator business but they're mere pikers compared to this aged jurist.

The judge has absolute power to do anything he likes in baseball. His word is absolute and final in any and all disputes between individuals, clubs or leagues. He can not only interpret any rule he wishes but he can abrogate any or all rules or make any new ones he cares to make.

So absolute is his power, in fact, that nobody in baseball may have recourse to the courts. Baseball delegated him full powers as an arbitrator and as such no court can overrule him no matter what his decision may be.

Gelbert, who was shot in the leg, said he had been reinstated by Commissioner K. M. Landis, and would rejoin the Cards when they arrive at Bradenton, Fla.

GELBERT TO TRY FOR CARD OUTFIT

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Jan. 18—Charley Gelbert, former star shortstop with the St. Louis Cardinals, today eagerly awaited spring training when he said he will seek to regain the berth he vacated two years ago as the result of a hunting accident.

Gelbert, who was shot in the leg, said he had been reinstated by Commissioner K. M. Landis, and would rejoin the Cards when they arrive at Bradenton, Fla.

DR. HEIN ELECTED

COLUMBUS, Jan. 18—Dr. C. C. Hein, Columbus, president of the American Lutheran church, was named president of the National Lutheran Council at a meeting in New York The council voted to ask 2,000,000 members of Lutheran churches to withhold their patronage from indecent motion pictures.

Receipts of butter at four leading markets during the first 20 days of December were about one-fourth less than they were the first 20 days of last December.

In southern Ohio the corn ear worm is a serious pest of tomatoes. It eats into the fruits, destroying early maturing tomatoes especially.

SPYING on SPORTS

Central Press Sports Writer

Attacks by American swimmers on national and world records argues against repetition of supremacy in water events of the Olympic games in Germany next year by Japanese who ruled the waves in 1932 at Los Angeles.

The little brown men, who were reported by hysterical patriots to be using oxygen as a stimulant in the 1932 games, will have to think up some pretty potent cocktail if they hope to match aquatic strides in 1936 with Ralph Flanagan and others who recently lowered 25 A. A. U. national and two world records in the Miami-Biltmore pool at Coral Gables, Fla. Perhaps the Orientals could find the required "pick-up" at one of our enterprising horse tracks, where daily, I am told, at least one of the races is so patronized by hopped horses it is called by the talent the Drug Store Derby.

Or Should I?

Alarm over Japanese ingenuity perhaps should prompt our Olympic authorities to demand the saliva test when the swimmers do their stuff under the swastika.

Review of the recent Florida program reveals some remarkable accomplishments by Flanagan, Flator, Holm, Jarrett, Lenore, Kicht, Alice Bridges, Katherine Rawls and members of the New York Women's Swimming association team composed of Elsie Ferri, Janice Ligon, Elizabeth Harrison and Dorothea Dickinson.

Reveries were cut by whole seconds. For instance, Alice Bridges reduced the 500-meter free style national mark from Helene Madison's 7:22.5 to 7:08 1-5, a slash of 14.25 seconds, which is a long time in the water.

Other names were shaved, especially the relay team cutting a three-and-a-half mile in the 400-yard relay course event by almost 10 seconds.

The story of the Japanese and their oxygen, which was common talk around the stadium in Los Angeles three years ago, is not to be taken too seriously, of course. The Japanese showed a striking new style at Los Angeles, and Johnny Weissmuller, who worked out with them, discounted the tales of doping as pure fiction. But there was some hullabaloo about it, you remember.

A three day course for nurserymen and landscape gardeners is offered by the department of horticulture of the Ohio State University January 22, 23 and 24.

LEADERS MOVE TO EXEMPT LOW SALARIED OFFICIALS

MAY RESTORE SALARY CUTS

Half Would be Excluded From Cut If $2,000 Salary Would Be Set as Limit.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 15. In the belief that Governor Davey's proposal to re-enact the old state employees' salary reduction act is certain to encounter implacable opposition in the lower house, Democratic legislative leaders today considered exempting salaries of $2,000 or less.

Whether this would be satisfactory to the new governor, who is prepared to swing the axe on one-third of all state employees and to veto the $19,000,000 appropriation bill, unless salaries are cut, was to be determined by the leaders before the legislature reconvenes to hear Davey's first message next Tuesday.

ALL AFFECTED

Under the salary reduction act that expired last Dec. 31, all salaries were affected. Five per cent was deducted from the first $1,000, 10 per cent from the second, 12 1/2 per cent from the third, 15 per cent from the fourth, 17 1/2 per cent from the fifth, and 20 per cent from all over $5,000.

About half of all state employees would suffer no pay slash if a $2,000 exemption was written into the proposed economy act, it was stated at the auditor's office. Estimated annual savings to the state under the old act was roughly $1,500,000.

Democratic leaders evolved the compromise proposal after discovering much opposition to re-enactment of the former economy law, both in their own party ranks and across the aisle where the Republicans, with a majority of one, are in numerical control of the lower house.

Publicly representative groups of state employees had little to say about the governor's stand on salaries, remembering that he promised to discharge those who lobbied against the proposal to cut their pay. But privately they said plenty.

Their resentment reached its zenith at mention of another recommendation of the new governor that the $1 a gallon tax on liquor be removed. They accused him of trying to cut the cost of liquor at the expense of state employees. Oddly, the anticipated savings to liquor consumers would just about equal the aggregate amount cut from employees' salaries, if the old economy law were enacted.

THE "Laxative Question"

DOCTORS SETTLED IT, LONG AGO.

UNDER the doctor's care, or in the hospital, you would use a liquid laxative. And the liquid form is what you would use at home, if you knew what a doctor knows!

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less.

Once you have experienced this comfort, you will never return to any form of help that can't be regulated to suit the need.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit—even with children. It's

BE CAREFUL
If any laxative makes you thirsty, affects your appetite, seems to burn, or requires larger doses than when you first began its use—change to a liquid laxative!

BRUNO'S NERVE FAILS, STATE'S CASE IS AIDED

out at young Tommy Sisk, the boyish department of justice agent who was on the witness stand: "Mister, mister, you stop lying! You're telling a story."

Hauptmann's voice shook with rage and his slim, muscular frame trembled. He was completely out of his chair and he had both arms extended toward Sisk. His attitude was strange combination of menace and anguished appeal. His voice was at once threatening and plaintive and his declaration ended in sort of a wail of blubbering incoherence.

Guards pulled the trembling Hauptmann back into his chair. For minutes afterward the prisoner's deepest, beady eyes, glazed with anger, stared at C. Lloyd Fisher, the defense lawyer who seemed to like best, came back into the courtroom and had just stepped out, did Hauptmann get a grip upon himself. Fisher pleaded with Hauptmann to "Please keep quiet, for God's sake," and Hauptmann was heard to mutter: "I can't stand those lies."

The courtroom seethed. Justice Trenchard's usually tranquil voice rose to a firm resonance as he said: "I must warn the defendant that he will have to be quiet. If he has anything to say he must say it to his counsel."

Nobody in that courtroom will ever forget that scene. Veterans of murder trials for years back say they never saw anything like it. It was more melodramatic than when Judd Gray, on the stand at the famous Snyder-Gray murder trial in Long Island city, illustrated with a sawhorse in his hand how he beat his homicidal husband to death as he slept. It was more dramatic than when Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman", was brought into the courtroom on a stretcher to testify at the Hall-Mills trial at Somerville, N. J.

COURT SILENT

As Hauptmann was crying out at Sisk, a tense silence fell on the courtroom, broken only by the swishing of sheets of paper, frantically handed by reporters to waiting messenger boys who pushed the blanks containing hastily scribbled "flashes" from one to another and out to the telegraph operators in nearby rooms.

Amid all the excitement everybody forgot Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the "slam" baby. When Hauptmann jumped up and shouted at Sisk, Lindbergh sat bolt upright in his chair and turned alert eyes upon the man accused of kidnapping and murdering his child. Whether Lindbergh was carrying his pistol, as he previously had done in court, was not known.

Sisk, speaking in impetuous tones, was telling the jury at the time of Hauptmann's outburst that Hauptmann had admitted to him that he had had a secret hiding place in a stone jar under his garage where he had kept the Lindbergh ransom money before placing it in the shoe box in which the agents found it.

This was a damning blow to

FISHER ANGERED

The fact that Hauptmann's lawyers are squabbling among themselves is an open secret in Philadelphia. Shortly before Hauptmann's outburst yesterday afternoon, C. Lloyd Fisher, one of the defense attorneys, stalked out of the courtroom in indignation when Chief Defense Counsel Edward J. Reilly conceded that the body found on a lonely road several miles from the Lindbergh home on April 12, 1932, was the Lindbergh baby. This concession made the cross examination of previous witnesses seem rather ridiculous.

refused to reveal where his prisoners were being held or even the hospital to which Lagenza was taken.

It was believed they were being held at one of the police stations. Mans and Lagenza boarded the night train for Philadelphia on Jan. 17.

Both were convicted but escaped jail in November, while awaiting appeal on Mans' mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Mans of Philadelphia, was indicted on a charge of a slaying in the jail break.

They returned to Philadelphia and began a reign of terror in that city and Baltimore. In December they succeeded in carrying out a $18,000 payroll robbery in Philadelphia. Philadelphia police said the money was for a defense fund for seven members of the gang who had just been captured there.

Vera (Billy) Reed, Chicago night club hostess, alleges she was pitched into a tub of boiling water by George Eastman Dryden, 21-year-old heir to the Eastman camera millions, during a party in Dryden's apartment. ## JUNIOR COLLEGE IS PLANNED HERE

A meeting has been called for Memorial Hall Monday, Jan. 21, at 8 p. m. by G. D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools, at which time the emergency junior college work will be discussed.

Junior college level work is primarily intended for young people, who, because of financial conditions at home, are unable to attend college.

A plan for admission to the junior college classes should present evidence that he is a graduate of a first grade high school or similarly accredited schools.

Persons of maturity, 21 or over, who in the estimation of the director of the center, are able to carry the work with profit, may be enrolled in classes even though they are not graduates of accredited secondary schools.

A semester shall consist of 18 weeks of class work, and a quarter will consist of 12 weeks of class work except where working relationships with colleges of universities allow shorter hours.

A semester hour is estimated on the basis of one class hour a week for 18 weeks; a quarter hour upon the basis of one class hour a week for 12 weeks. One class hour should be considered as at least 50 minutes of recitation.

The minimum preparation of teachers in emergency junior college centers shall be a year of graduate work in an approved graduate school in addition to a baccalaureate degree.

It is assumed, that although students attending emergency junior college centers may be unable to attend colleges and universities because of financial reasons they may nevertheless be able to buy a few books and other materials. It is asked that local service organizations be asked to help.
